In the MONEY

If you had to prepare a list of Americans with incomes running into the highest brackets, you would probably include John D. Rockefeller, J. P. Morgan, James D. Van derbilt, a Phlips or two Henry Ford, and of course the heirs to the Mellon estate. You would not likely think of Joe Louis or Walter Winchell.

And yet it is doubtful if there were a dozen men in the United States whose incomes were greater during the past few years than those more or less rank and file. When you speak of the "big rich," you must include them, as well as Rudy Vallee, Kate Smith, Pease and Alton, the authors of Burroughs Merrydew Round, Bob Burns, of Banzooka fame, and America's latest sweetheart, Shirley Temple.

For all of these have annual incomes which run into six figures, and a six figure income in anybody's money ranks him in the upper brackets. When the figures on the big industrialists' incomes were published a short while ago, not many of them reached into six figures, and those that did stopped there.

Joe Louis is said to have made over a million dollars during the past three years. He did this on a maximum working time schedule that would meet the approval of even the most rabid CIO organizer. In his last fight he made a ring only two minutes and four seconds. For that he received $200,000 which figures out in round numbers at something like $150,000 a minute.

Walter Winchell can't boast any such earning capacity as that, but he does right well for himself. Last year he made $150,000 out of two movies, $192,000 for radio broadcasts, and about $89,700 for his syndicated newspaper columns. If he had no other source of income, such as stocks and bonds, he would grow a neat little $432,700 with which to worry along on until business picks up.

We haven't the figures handy for Charlie McCarthy, but we dare say he earns more than the president of the United States, or the chairman of General Motors, or board of directors. It takes a hard-headed man to succeed these days—Sanford Herald.

FERTILIZER

Among the things you never knew till now, unless you happen to be one of Nathan Mayo's inspectors, is that there are 8,000 different brands of fertilizer being offered the farmers and growers of this state. Manufacturers claim all are logical and necessary and designed to meet needs of a variety of different plants, trees, shrubs and flowers or conditions of soil and weather.

One company alone, reports 377 different brands and 31 special mixtures. No wonder growers who buy fertilizer become nervous nervous. Personally, we'll take nature—Winter Haven Herald.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

It looks like poor Governor Fred don't anymore than get through ben't blessed out in one direction before they start pickin' on him in the other. If he comes and says somethin' its usually WHO and on the other hand, if he tries keepin' 'mum, they give him hell on 'so the poor boy is in a hard time tryin' to figure out what to do.

A while back when he was milley 'round with the Yankees in New York a flock of inquisitive reporters and C. I. O. boys back him into a corner and try to eight-hall him into pronouncin' his "blessing" on Mr. Lewis' outfit. Instead of dashin' out a lot of saliva and holoney Fred come and said tell 'em how he and a lot of other folks feel about it and his frankness at that peculiar time was more than any other one thing to keep this state from bein' over run with a flock of agitators.

In the case of the unfortunate in the selection of workers and the idea he was tryin' to control the state from bein' over run with more diplomatic terms but nevertheless he expressed the right idea and it did Florida a lot more good than any.

In spite of the fact a lot of newspapers jumped all over him groups and individuals condemned him while they were and tore him apart. Even those who felt like he did about it but didn't have the courage to admit it, pretended to be horrified.

So havin' gone through one mess that it is only natural that Fred might hesitate to speak his mind as bluntly and openly in the future, seem' it didn't get him numbers at something like $150,000 a minute.

The other day a group hopped up and asked him "What about 'Neat's' establishin' a Bund in Florida?" Well, it was another beautiful chance for the governor to say the wrong thing, but havin' stuck his tail in the crack on other occasions, Fred probably figured he'd fool 'em this time, so in stead of makin' any pointed remarks about what might or might not be done to a flock of goose-steppin' Hitler helters, should they happen to put in their appearance down our way, he makes out like he don't know the answer and just said "sayin'."

This time, because he didn't let himself go and say what he probably thinks, they start climbin' all over him and are as sore as a flock of owls because the governor don't say somethin' about bollin' 'em in or out of 'gum' 'em to a tree.

No matter what else may be said about the governor, nobody can ever question his patriotism and his true democracy and his staunch Americanism. If I were a Bund star I could think of a lot more healthier places to start one than the state of Florida, particularly with a chap like Fred P. One sin in the governor's chair.

Americans, for the most part are a patriotic and glib lot. It takes plenty to get 'em stirred up, but when they do reach a point where they "view with alarm" they generally find a way to do somethin' 'bout it. While they may permit a few screwballs to parade for a time and about for this or that, or stand by to courtesy to listen to some red rabble rouser froth at the state of Florida, particularly 120,000,000 citizens, like a well known soap, can be classed as 99 and 44-100 percent pure. Good sound, solid level headed AMER-ICANS, that may appear harmless and indifferent but they constitute

State Welfare Board

Makes Report Old Age Assistance First Year

JACKSONVILLE, July 14.—Progress made by the state welfare board in administering Old Age Assistance and Aid to the Blind during its first year is revealed in a statistical report released here today by Clayton C. Colding, state welfare commissioner.

The period covered is for the year beginning July 1, 1937, at which time the board was inducted into office, through June of this year. During that period Old Age Assistance grants increased from a total of 10,958 cases receiving $125,270.74 to 29,469 cases receiving $428,750 cases. The average grant was $11.56 on July 1, 1937 and $14.55 for July 1938.

The Aid to the Blind program did not get under way until January, with only 47 checks issued for the month. During June 1,426 checks were issued for a total of $21,019.00. The average grant for June was $14.74.

Palm Beach county was receiving $6,840 in Old Age Assistance in July, 1937, with 999 recipients enrolled, and in June, 1938, was receiving $11,567.00, with 1,074 recipients enrolled. The average grant for July of last year was $11.78, and for June of this year was $11.74.

Half of the money paid out in Old Age Assistance in the county prior to July, 1937, came from county coffers. None of the funds received since June of 1937 have come from the county treasury thereby relieving its public assistance burden and enabling the county to care more generously for those in need of direct relief.

Although only four counties benefited from Aid to the Blind in January of this year, all of them were profiting from this form of assistance at the rate of $100,000.00 per year. The amount to be expended is limited by a state appropriation of $150,000.00 plus $200,000.00 in matching federal funds.

The Aid to Dependent Children plan is now before the Social Security board at Washington and upon its approval the state will begin disbursing this form of assistance at the rate of $100,000.00 per year. The amount to be expended is limited by a state appropriation of $150,000.00 plus $200,000.00 in matching federal funds.
